GERMANY'S NEED OF "OPEN AIR FOR EXPANSION.

AMSTERDAM, July 13. The following is substantially the text of Count Hertling's reference to Belgium:-

"The present occupation of Bel gium only means that we have a pawn for future negotiations. One does not intend to keep what one holds as a pawn if the negotiations result favourably. We have no intention to keep Belgium in whatever form. We want Belgium restored wifer the war as an independent

Count Hertling proceeded to dwel on Germany's need of "open air for expansion," especially economically, which was duite compatible with Hermany's point of view as regards Belgium. But how that point of view could be established in a detailed way depended on future negotiations on the matter. He was unable to give a binding declaration.

GERMAN BRUTALITY TO PRISONERS.

STORIES BY WITNESSES.

The "Times?" in a very strong article at the end of May, arging an exchange of prisoners of war, wrote that available evidence of the ill-meatment of British prisoriers, had greatly increased in volume since British officer prisoners readfed the internment emps, in Holland. "It is now sepious and overwhelming." it said. "Wrong by the thought of the men they have left behind in Germany. British officers in Holland are sparing no effort to break the barrier of official. reserve and to stir the country to demand more energetic action. The total of the evidence can only be made available by the Covernment. It should be withheld no langer. The truth is that British preoners in Germany are being subjected in many camps to deliberate and calculated inharganity for which the occusional dentality of isolated camp commanders denot account. In camps close behind the enemy " liges, in salt and cool mines, in countless detached and isolated places, they are made the victims of a deliberate policy of vindictiveness. It was thought here that conditions had lately improved. We know now that only the main camps in Germany are better than they were in the early days of the war. "Elsewhere the conditions are intolerable. Food, course, is always bad and insufficient, but that is the least. These accounts be tearible, with their proofs of sick men driven to work, of sanitary condition foully deficient, of medical attention brutilly denied, but men bullied and beam by the officers as well as by the guards in charge of them, in many cases of deliberate morder. One of these, the case of Private Barry, was mentioned in the House of Commons last week. The country, which has dong suspected the all was not so well with British prisoners in Clermany as official assurance suggested, has shown great patience with the policy of this and preceding evernments about prisoners. Plainly the time for patience has now gone by. In he light of what France has done the case for metion is overwhelming. From one edition of the "Tuies Weekly "-th of May 24th-we take the whole provinces, and in the same breath the German Chancellor tells us that his policy is the same as that which the Reichstag majority adopted last year. How Count "HERTLING reconciles the Brestlitovsk Fresty with the Reichstag resolution, which declared against no annexations, we are unal le to conceive. What President Wilson said of Count von HERTLING'S "statement of January latest deliverance, viz: "His discussion and acceptance of our general principles lead him to no practical conclusion. He refuses to apply them to the substantive items which must constitute the body of any final settlement." And this further holds":--After all, the test of whether it is possible for either Government to go any farther in this comparison of views is simple and obvious.

The principles to be applied are these: FIRST, that each part of the final settlement must be bused upon the essential justice of that particular case and upon such adjustments as are most likely to bring a peace that will be permanent, are not to be bartered about from sovreignty to sovreignty ha if they were mere chattels and pawns in a game, even the great game now for ever discredited of the balance of power; but that. THIRD, every territorial settlement involved in this war must be made in the interest and for the benefit of the populations concerned, and not as a part of any mere adjustment or com-promise of claims amongst rival States. For are, that all well-defined national aspirations shall be accorded the numer satisfaction that can be accorded them without introducing new or perpetuating old slements of discord and antagonism that would be likely in time to break the peace of Europe, and consequently of the world

A general peace creeted upon such foundations can be discussed. Until such a peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on. So far as we can judge, these principles that we regard as fundamental are already everywhere accepted as imperative except among the spokesmen of the military and annexationist party in Germany. If they have any here else been rejected the objectors have not been sufficiently numerous or influential to make their voices audible. The tragical circumstance is that this one party in Germany is apparently willing and able to send millions of men to their death to prevent what all the world now sees to

As regards venison, this used to be an old trade in pre-war days, the United States being a big customer of Great Britain in this respect. It is now, however, predicted that the day will soon come when reindeer meat will be as common as beef or mutton in the American markets, as the result of an investigation into Alaskan conditions. It will form the basis of a large packing industry, will be shipped in refrigerating steamers and sent to every town of importance in North America. BALTIC SUBMARINES.

SEVEN SUNK OFF HATLSINBFORS.

The following is the full text of the Admiralty communique on this a ubject which was summarised in a Router a able some time ave.

The seven submarines of the Royal Navy which remained in Russian waters were destroyed by order during the five days from April 3 to April 8, 1918, upon the approach of German naval forces and transports to Hango (South-West Finland). None of the ships fell into enemy hands. The guns at and near Hango had already been dismantled; and upon the The Federal Food Commissioner of appearance of the German forces the Russians retreated from the vicinity, after blowing up their four American submarines. Four British submarines. on the other side of the Atlantic, of bour of Helsingfore on April 3, blown of Class E were taken outside the harwhich amount 150,000,000 bushels may up, and sunk. Three O boats were be directly attributed to the voluntary demolished between that day and April

The project of blocking the harbour by been ted and every need of food here of the merchant vessel, was, however, promptly filled. Our Navy is the best excellent, and induced the destruction of many ships which would otherwise have fallen into the hands of the enemy. Of the submarines mentioned above, two E boats had been employed in the We are now shipping 300,000,000 Baltic since October 15, 1914. E - and we have a reserve of 1,100,000,000 1915; E and E (the former subpounds; insuring a reserve supply sequently lost on service) had sailed on sufficient to take care of the needs of September 4, 1915. All these boats had the Allies indefinitely. As a result of through the Skaw and the Sound. The remainder, C -, C -, and C had been towed to Archangel, leaving England on August 1, 1916, floated at the latter port on to lighters, and re-moved to Kronstadt by inland water transport. crew, which reached Pernau in safety.

PETROGRAD, May 17.

There have recently been some very unfair remarks about the late British submarines in the Baltic by a writer who was evidently unaware of the splendid work of those boats in exceptionally adverse conditions. What have they done i inquires this critic. The ignorance displayed by such a question is probably due to the secrecy in which our naval operations have been carried on during this war.

"At the end of the German operations in taking the islands of Oesel and Dago the British flotilla was officially informed that it could not be employed on the German coast, as it was the sole defence of the Gulf of Finland, and must therefore he held in hand as the only avail able protection against the advance of the Germans to Petrograd. During the presence of our flotilla in the Baltic it succeeded in sinking one buttleship, two cruisers, four destroyers, one aeroplane carrier, "four transports, one collier, and 14 merchant vessels. This entailed not less than between 20.6 and 3,000 casualties to the enemy-that is to say, 10 times the numerical strength of the flotilla.

Under the able command of Captain romie, D.S.O., the senior naval officer in the Baltic, our submarine flotilla ir this sea during 1917 constituted the only reconnoitring force in the Russian Fleet and the only force that opposed the entry of the German Fleet into the Gulf of Riga. On that occasion they sank one aeroplane carrier and one transport. Two of their torpedoes passed under the German flagship, and one of them exploded on the far side, probably against a screening "turpede-beat." Another British submarine met the Fleet between the minefield and the shore and ran aground during the attack. In this position she was assailed by overwhelming numbers, but managed to escape in a greatly damaged condition. This boat, however, continued to work in the Riga. Gulf in spite of her damage for over a month, cut off from all support after all the Russian forces had retired, and she finally escaped by a passage considered impassable before it was forced by one of our boats, owing to 3,0 mines having been placed there since the beginning of trying and the moral effect of this small force on the revolutionary fleet, which was fully recognized by inhabitants of the naval ports and the Naval Staff. was out of all proportion to its military value. The idea of returning the boats to England had to be abandoned, as the passage of the Sound was recognized as impossible. There remained no alternative but to leave the boats more or less interned in Helsingfore. But when Finland was included in the German war area there was no other option but that of destroying the boats on the Sir Hedley Le. Ban, an enterpris- approach of the Germans. Their gallent

HONGKONG TIDES.

The tide-table given below has been compiled at the National Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an automatic tide-recording machine in the Water Police Basin at Tsim Sha Tsui during the years 1909-9.

The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the sounding in the Admiralty British make (new) and two Electric Chart, which has been found to be 4 feet 3 inches below mean sea-level To obtain the depth of water on the tide gauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 3 feet 4 inches, and on the gange at Lamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 4 inches to the height given in the table. July 17th to 23rd, 1918.
